"NEW SCREEN MAGAZINE"
OCT 31 1919

No. 38

©CLM. 1455

In "New Screen Magazine" #38 we meet Henry Walker and family who have played a mean trick on "Old Man High Cost" by going back to first principles and living as their pioneer ancestors lived. We are then shown how to tell pure wool from cotton mixtures. It is hard to believe that a giant pine tree would consider a little worm its greatest enemy, but the Screen Magazine shows t'is so. Lillian Russell then shows us how to sleep for beauty; while our own chemist shows us how an electric furnace will melt rocks and iron. The Adventures of Cinema Luke, produced under the direction of Leslie Elton and a "Futurist Movie" of Abraham Lincoln complete the magazine.
